

Our services

Web Design

Our prof. developers design & build websites that will promote your company into the area of interactive business. When we start building your website we think mostly to the accessibility and usability issues. We make sure that it is search engine optimised & ready, using site optimisation best techniques to make sure that you receive only quality traffic. Our website design prices are competitive (you can't get better than that) for the standard we achieve. We make sure all of the specifications and guidelines from the World Wide Web Consortium (www.w3.org) are followed. We can do also website renovating (website redesign). If your products don't sell or your current website doesn't hit the mark, you should contact us today to find out how we can build the site you really need. All our clients are individually treated and therefore we do not offer fixed on web design. To help us to better understand your requirements & features of your web site, don't hesitate to fill out our free quote request form with as much detail as possible. Web Programming

We have written a lot of applications for our clients, ranging from simple application forms to full e-commerce websites with payment processing. When we are asked to write custom applications we first make sure that the script fits in with their existing design and that they are 100% satisfied with it. You can see our testimonials here. We offer full support and software updates on all of our custom applications to make sure that they last forever J

Right now we deal a lot with PHP (Hypertext Preprocessor) and/or ASP.net (Active Server Pages, .net framework). PHP, most used programming language is a widely-used open source server-side scripting language very popular. Being an open source means it is available for general public without a licensing fee. Virtually all of the applications and scripts that we develop come with an admin control panel of some sorts, allowing you to log in securely and administer the users, content or other aspect's of the application. If you would like a free quotation or consultation, please be specific, giving examples if possible.

Logo Design

We take good care when designing a logo because it can be the deciding factor for many potential customers & visitors. Your logo must be unique and recognizable that people will keep in mind and will associate with your you and your company. We'll design your logo based on your ideas, colour scheme preferred and any text or images you think about. If you would like a free quote for your logo, please contact us with as much information as possible.
